Aeon Create Partners with Louisiana Technology Park

BATON ROUGE – Aeon Create, a local graphic design and marketing firm, is the newest member of the Louisiana Technology Park’s Strategic Partner program.

The Tech Park uses strategic partners to act as mentors, providing products and services on a gratis or discounted rate, which are crucial to a young company’s growth and development.

“Our strategic partnership with the Louisiana Technology Park has created a great opportunity for us to aid in the technological advancement of Baton Rouge. It is important for us all to work together to create career opportunities that will keep the best and the brightest in our state,” said Carl Accardo, Creative Director of Aeon Create.

“We are pleased to welcome Aeon Create as one of our strategic partners. The services that they provide are an important part of business success. All of our strategic partners provide a valuable service and are very generous with their time,” said Louisiana Technology Park President Eddie Ashworth.

Along with design and marketing firms like Aeon Create, the Tech Park’s other strategic partners include the area’s largest law firms, accounting and services companies. The list also includes the nation’s leaders in software, hardware and financial companies.

The Louisiana Technology Park is an incubator for technology-oriented companies providing highly-subsidized services, including high-speed Internet access and business coaching that enables emerging companies to grow.
